December Things!

Our December meeting or party however you want to look at it started at the stroke of 8 PM. President Robbie Bridges gave his spiel on every subject under the sun and closed with a description of the evenings raffle prizes. The prizes were the usual assortment of software and hardware topped off with a special prize for the Christmas party. The special prize, which the club purchased, was a pretty new Hewlett Packard C200 digital camera.

The evening's entertainment and demonstration was of course the digital camera. In order to ensure the lucky recipient of a properly working piece of equipment it was necessary to put the camera through its paces. Before the meeting even got under way the head instigator, Bob Woolley, had the camera out of its box and with batteries installed, started taking pictures. Needless to say HP makes a nice piece of equipment and the directions that came with it made hookup and operation a snap.

As soon as a few pictures were taken they were downloaded to Bob's PC, which is a rather lengthy process. The software that came with the camera was more than ample to manipulate and size the pictures, and we soon had a picture of quite good resolution filling the screen. Overall the camera was very simple and easy to use. (It had to be or Bob couldn't have handled it.)

The party, which consisted of the usual ice cream, cake and sodas, managed to use up the rest of the evening. To climax the party the usual crooked raffle was staged and I do mean staged. With the camera as first prize everybody was in line to get tickets. In order for total honesty in the drawing the President had his roommate, Ralph, draw the winning tickets. Well you get three guesses as to who won the camera and the first two guesses don't count. The President will enjoy using his new camera over the coming holidays.

Last month we made mention of the young lady that was having trouble with lost memory on her computer, well the final resolution of her problem was quite interesting. It seems as though she uses the Eudora email program and has for quite some time. She religiously trashed her old email messages every week to keep her program working well. But what she didn't realize was with Eudora you also have to empty the trash. After she found out about that and emptied her 20,000 messages out of the trash bin her problems with lack of memory disappeared.

That's all, see you at the meeting.
